Pertinent To's Discussed by H.C.

Robert Lynd, English author, says men do not seek to arrive at truth but rather to defend what they have arrived at by faith or guess-work. It should be pointed out that he made this statement before that parliamentary committee was set up at Ottawa to further investigate the Bren gun contract.

It does not improve Mr. Dunning's position that the revenue shows a seventy per cent. increase in the past four years. It just makes his failure to hold expenditure below it all the more grievous to him. He would do it if he could but the pork-barrel, like the horse-leech, cries "Give, Give!" and is never satisfied.

Mr. Roosevelt is a seasoned politician. The seasoning is assisted by his onions which he knows so well. When Republicans declaim against his spending, he inquires "Where can you cut it down?" That stops them. They know they would lose votes in that place if they named it. The people there may object to expenditures elsewhere but not at home. Their mentality is curiously like ours in Canada. The orgy will continue until enough electors vote against extravagance even in their own district. Until that time arrives, no politician can afford to specify where he would economize.

University professors who have some sense and sensibility have developed a reticence that should serve as an example to a few who have not. These never lose a chance to air their views which are usually anti-British. One charges Britain with having wrecked the League of Nations and collective security whereas, reliance at the League, if continued, might easily have wrecked Britain. Several of them are for Canadian neutrality in the event of war, as impossible for us as it is for Ireland. One suggested the new Canadian flag should be of wool so it can shrink with the British Empire. All this suggests that the vast majority of professors should abandon reticence and say what they really think of their blethering brethren. It suggests too, that university governors can save money by getting rid of professors who have so much leisure time on their hands that they devote a portion to it.

Regular Meeting of Eastway Social Club

The Eastway Women's Social Club held its fifth meeting of the year at the home of Miss Dorothy Noble on Thursday last, with a large number of members present.

During the business meeting reports from various committees were heard as the ladies furthered arrangements for their social evening to be held on Wednesday, March 15th. A very enjoyable and successful evening was held at the previous card party on March 4th when many members and friends attended. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Fleming on March 23rd.

Miss Willena McMullen gave a most entertaining reading concerning the rather adverse fortunes of a certain Dutchman in courtship, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. A contest and raffle were held and refreshments were served.

W. I. Radium Supply

One of the projects of the Women's Institute has been to create a fund to procure a supply of radium whereby anyone suffering from cancer may receive the radium free in treatment of the disease. The association now has 56 milligrams of the precious metal. Dr. Rose of Lethbridge is the head of this Radium Association.

To follow up the work of the Women's Institute have as a project for 1939, distribution of health literature. In order to have a Goodwill Message from the children of rural Alberta broadcast on the C.B.C., the message has to be sent in by the end of April. All letters or messages should be sent to Mrs. M. L. Todd.

Mrs. T. B. Lebeau Injured in Accident

Severe bruises and facial injuries were received by Mrs. T. B. Lebeau early Sunday evening as a result of an accident which occurred on the main highway about 13 miles south of Calgary.

A north-bound car, owned by J. deZeeuw of Drumheller and driven by J. Moyer of Calgary, got out of the driver's control and swung over to the wrong side of the road as it approached the Lebeau car, with the result that a head-on collision occurred. Due to the heavy snowstorm, neither car was travelling very fast and, with the exception of Mrs. Lebeau, occupants of both cars escaped with a severe shaking up and minor injuries. Mr. Lebeau was driving the Vulcan car at the time and suffered a blow on the forehead, being more fortunate than Mrs. Lebeau who was also in the front seat. Mrs. H. LaRoche, who was sitting in the back seat, received a severe blow on the forehead and is under the doctor's care, while the other passengers in the Vulcan car, Miss M. DeMaere and Robert Munro, escaped injury.

The driver of Mr. deZeeuw's large sedan suffered severe cuts when his hand went through the dashboard clock. Other passengers in the Drumheller car received minor scratches and bruises. Both cars were badly damaged.

Mrs. Lebeau was taken to the General hospital in a passing car and is under the care of Dr. C. Bouck. She is recovering nicely.

Vulcan Pioneer Dies At Age of 77

The death of one of Vulcan's most respected pioneers occurred at Peniticton, B.C., on February 24th, when J. H. McFarland died at the age of 77. The following is taken from the Peniticton Herald:

Born in Missouri, Mr. McFarland heard the call of the West, settling in the High River district in Alberta. The town of Vulcan grew up around the place where he settled, his blacksmith shop being one of the centres of the young community. He was of material assistance in building up the district, remaining there until three years ago, when he came to Peniticton to make his home.

He is survived by four daughters, Miss C. N. McFarland, Peniticton; Mrs. J. R. Duguid, Brant, Alta.; Mrs. H.B. Jones, Alts, Alta., and Mrs. N. A. McLeod, Ddisbury, Alta., and three sons, L. C. McFarland, of Peniticton; J. A. McFarland of Peace River, Alta. and E. J. McFarland of Vulcan, Alta. One daughter, Mrs. C. G. Steiner, predeceased him in 1937.

Rev. C. R. McGillivray officiated at the funeral, which was held on Monday, February 27th. Interment was made in the Lakeview cemetery. Mrs. J. R. Duguid and Mr. E. J. McFarland of this district attended the funeral.

H.S. Students' Union

A busy session was had at the regular meeting of the High School Students' Union last Friday, with a proposal that the high school hold a track meet in the spring being discussed. A petition seeking the separation of the offices of secretary and treasurer was presented and it was decided that a public program would be put on in April. Orville Roe was named to look into the cost of purchasing school rings.

The program included the following numbers: a vocal duet by Lillian Clark and Leta Robson, a quiz contest arranged by Grade 12 students, a vocal solo by Murray Fisher, a piano solo by Margaret Oldfield, vocal solo by Jordan Lundgren, piano selection by Doris Tuttle. The school paper was presented by Harry Martin and Verne Almond.

Will Organize Unity Association In Little Bow Prov. Constituency

Will Hold Organization Meeting at Vulcan on April 5th; Hope to Have John I. McFarland Speak

First steps towards establishing a Unity association in the Little Bow constituency were taken last week when about 25 residents of the district gathered in the Carson block to discuss the Unity movement in Alberta.

E. W. Brunson, secretary of the Provisional Unity Council for Alberta, addressed the gathering, explaining the objectives of the Unity association. Suggestions on how to organize the constituency and establish a Unity association similar to that in the Okotoks-High River constituency were given by M. Wallace of High River.

Donald Sinclair acted as chairman and W. D. Allan as secretary at the meeting and it was decided that a temporary committee be appointed to get the movement organized. The committee appointed consists of J. D. Hagehman, Thomas Love, Mrs. G. Oldfield, James Dann, W. D. Allan and Donald Sinclair and have power to add to their number.

It was agreed and carried that an organization meeting be held on April 5th and that John I. McFarland, head of the Unity Council of Alberta, be invited to address the meeting. The meeting will be held in the Vulcan

Re-affiliation of W.M.S. and C.G.I.T.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held in the Sunday school room last Thursday.

After the regular meeting, in which Mrs. McAfee took the study book, a re-affiliation service with the C.G.I.T. was held. The senior C.G.I.T. group, under the leadership of Marie Clarkson, re-affiliated with the W.M.S. Mrs. Johnson conducted the impressive service, with most of the twelve girls taking part.

The April thank-offering meeting of the W.M.S. will be held in the church on April 13, Mrs. Frank Harback being the guest speaker.

Theatre at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, April 5th.

Mr. McFarland, an able speaker, addressed a meeting at High River in January at which some 400 people were present, and residents of this district will no doubt welcome the opportunity to hear him. Topics discussed will be of immediate and practical interest to the electorate and Mr. McFarland's views on the wheat situation would be of particular interest to local citizens, as his experience of a life-time gives authority to any views he may express on this subject.

Mr. Roebuck says he received 50 votes at the election, while the returning officer found that his opponent, Fred T. Graham, received 51 votes.

The recount is scheduled to take place at the courthouse on Friday, March 17, at 2 p.m.

Royal M.D. Offer Re Horse Sickness

General warnings have been issued that sleeping sickness amongst horses is likely to recur this spring. In this connection, attention is called to an advertisement in this issue authorized by the Municipal District of Royal and it would be well if action is taken by those farmers concerned before any outbreak occurs. As will be noted in the advertisement, arrangements have been made through the co-operation of the Department of Agriculture and the Municipality and with the assistance of Geo. Tydd of Vulcan and Geo. Forbes of Brant, to vaccinate horses in the district at small cost, on condition that owners will gather their horses together in small bunches.

Residents of Royal are asked to read the advertisement carefully and observe the requirements stipulated. It is noted that horses vaccinated in 1938 should be re-vaccinated. It is the intention to start the work as early as possible so that it may be completed before seeding.

Mrs. J. McWhinnie Called By Death

A well-known and respected resident of the Vulcan district for many years, Mrs. Janet McWhinnie, aged 78 years, died at Vulcan on Thursday, March 9th. She had been ill for about two and a half months.

Born at Rutherglen, Scotland, she came to Canada in 1909 and resided at Lethbridge, later moving with her husband to Vulcan where they took up farm lands north-east of town.

Predeceased by her husband in 1931, Mrs. McWhinnie is survived by two daughters and three sons, Mrs. A. P. Robson, Vulcan; Mrs. Charles Hay, Vulcan; James, Vulcan; David, Detroit and Robert of Santa Barbara, Calif.

Services were held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Snodgrass Funeral Home and interment was made in the Vulcan cemetery.

Local Fish and Game Association Active

An interview with G. C. Collier, secretary of the Vulcan Fish and Game Association, reveals that the association has been very active during the past months. The local branch has ordered and paid for 30 Chykar partidge from the Calgary branch and has made sanctuaries of the two farms on which the birds will be placed. The farms, those of C. G. Steiner and W. G. Peterson, are ideal for this purpose in that they have water, trees and natural cover in coulees.

The Vulcan association also has a pen of pheasants, from which they hope to distribute settings of eggs. The pheasants were hatched from a setting of eggs procured from Champion last spring and are on the Dan Simms farm, which was posted as a sanctuary last year.

The much-discussed matter of the trapping of Hungarian partridge in this area was taken up with the provincial authorities by the local branch. Mr. Collier stated, and the government department replied that by mistake, one man went into the Lomond district to trap "huns" but he had been recalled, as it was not the intention of the department to trap any birds

A state of public opinion is being created in Canada which causes people to think that all we are getting from Ottawa is "intelligent standing still"; that, figuratively speaking, while we are riding in automobiles and airplanes, Ottawa is still using wagons. NEW IMMIGRANTS

THE proposal to admit a number of Sudeten Germans into Canada, has an advantage over many other immigrant plans in the fact that the movement is to be financed by Czech, French and British interests. These hard-pressed people are not arriving penniless, but would have a substantial backing for initial settlement.

In connection with the suggestion that a large proportion be settled in a bloc in the Peace River country, there is the question of whether it is desirable to encourage bloc settlement of any foreign peoples. The process of assimilation is undoubtedly slower, when numbers of the same nationality are grouped together. Another factor would be a necessity for new schools, roads and such facilities. It would seem that there is sufficient good land available in districts already settled and proved, to provide homes for these refugee families, with certain obvious advantages to be considered.

If this movement of immigrants becomes fact, it is to be hoped that the governments concerned will be scrupulous in seeing that the settlers are given a fair start on fertile land. Soil specialists are authority for the statement that there are parts of the Peace River country that are not good farm land, but the lack in soil fertility is not apparent till after two or three years of farming. It would be dishonest to permit any settlement on land that has not been thoroughly approved as good farm land. These people have suffered sufficiently, without being thrust into more discouragement.

Not always has there been sufficient care exercised in the rehabilitation schemes for our own Canadian people, particularly in the earlier years of depression. There have been instances of families leaving towns or drought areas, and being permitted to settle on land, on which they could not possibly make a good living. Such carelessness proves costly eventually to the governments concerned, and heart-breaking to settlers. For this reason, it is urged that any experiments in re-establishment, whether with our own people, or with new immigrants, be such as to give the settlers a chance to make good.

Those who oppose any immigration argue that before any foreigners are admitted into Canada, the present Canadian population should be restored to a self-supporting basis. They argue that already there is too great farm production, and that it is contradictory to urge restricted production on the one hand, and to encourage more producers on the other.

But a new population is also a consuming population. The fault is not too much production, but under-consumption and inadequate marketing efficiency. A larger population in Canada would be desirable in the long run.

It is quite possible that this is not the best time for introducing new settlers. But is Canada to continue indefinitely voicing sentiments of "deep regret at the sufferings of persecuted people," and refusing to implement these sentiments with one assisting gesture. As a people these Sudeten

German are industrious, agricultural and certainly insured to hardship. They are of a type which has made excellent settlers hitherto. But if they come, great care should be taken in their settlement, in their own interest and the interest of Canada.

ARMS PROFIT

NO more popular legislation could be brought before the Canadian government than the move to limit profits on munition making. The bill, introduced by Hon. Ian McKenzie, would cut profits on defence department supplies to five per cent on capital. Not only was notice of this measure supported wholeheartedly by Conservatives, but it will win the approval of the Canadian electorate.

When mention is made of "imperishable memories" of the Great War, it is obvious that one of these imperishable memories is of profiteering, not only in munitions but in foodstuffs, and all supplies. Any suggestion of undue profits of this nature in Canada, ever again touches a raw nerve. This accounted for the instant alertness of the public to the charges in connection with the Bren gun business. If the inquiry and the long parliamentary discussion, bring about a more careful control of all munition expenditure, they will have served a purpose which satisfies the majority. No government of the present day is likely to ignore public sentiment on this matter. The making of munitions in Canada is tolerated very reluctantly, only excused by the conviction that it may have become an unhappy necessity. But any suspicion that this unhappy necessity is bringing excess profits to a favored few, would cause an instant and united flare-up. The rankling belief which many people hold, that munition makers promote and stimulate war scares, and international friction, remains very active. So the best possible course is to remove any possibility of undue profits.

If this legislation is carried through as originally outlined, it will be a very effective control, said to be the most drastic in any democratic country. The defence purchasing board, as proposed, would consist of one full time chairman, and three part-time members. In order to select the best possible men, in whom the Canadian people would have confidence, it is proposed to bring together the leaders of all House parties to make the selection of board personnel. This will remove any suggestion of partisanship.

In the whole-hearted support of the principle embodied in this legislation, the House of Commons is commending itself to the public. More of this constructive unified action, would add prestige both to government and opposition.

RESULTS FROM $25,000,000?

HON. SOLON LOW, provincial treasurer, has introduced his budget calling for provincial expenditures of $25,000,000 and forecasting a deficit of $1,000,000. This is a far jump for a government that was going to do away with taxes and bring purchasing power to the people.

We have had theories aplenty, we have had prosperity certificates, credit houses, transfer vouchers, government-blessed co-operatives, many of which have already gone bankrupt. But we have had no outstanding government policies to help the position of our farmers, who find the market price of wheat below the cost of production and the dominion putting up $48,000,000 to cover the difference; oats and barley not worth the cost of the threshing bill; egg prices an insult to poultry, and market roads non-existent in this part of the country at least five months in the year. This is a farming country, and we would like to learn what benefits have accrued to our farmers for the increases of from 50 to 150 per cent in taxes that have taken place since the change in our government back in 1935. Will someone please write in and tell us, whether it is better schools, better roads, hospitals, markets or just more Sunday night radio programs and more civil servants drawing salaries.—Grande Prairie Herald.

Claims Only 417 More Employees

Hon. Solon Low Replying to
D. M. Duggan—Says That Statement of 1400 New Employees, Incorrect

Replying to D. M. Duggan's charge that 1400 new employees had been added to the provincial expense bill, Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer, stated that the personnel of the civil service had been increased 67 in permanent employees and 250 in temporary employees, a total of 417. This increase, he said, was due to the policy of spreading available work over as large a group as possible to relieve unemployment.

Dealing with charges by D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, that the government had "tapped" the sinking fund, Mr. Low pointed out the fund had increased in value from $9,925,223.34 in 1935 to $12,431,124.33 in 1938.

Mr. Low recalled Mr. Duggan had charged $900,000 of this increase had been contributed by the Wheat Pool. Actual payments into the sinking fund by the Wheat Pool amounted to $632,695 which included accretions since 1935.

Charges of increased tax revenue could not be substantiated when proper comparisons were made, said Mr. Low. The increased revenue from the social service tax was $298,536.44 but the government had assumed responsibilities totalling $325,000 which more than offset the increase. The social service tax would be removed at the first opportunity.

Careful study also was being given to possibility of consolidating the administration of the revenue departments which, in effect, was setting up a tax commission. He would visit all government offices and institutions in an effort to effect economies, said Mr.

"Fight For Canada" Challenging Talk

Bishop Sherman Declares
Confederation Born in Conviction And Faith; No Sectionalism

In a challenging address, given to Rotary Club, by Rt. Rev. R. Sherman, Bishop of Calgary, the principle of a united Canada was dominant. "Fight for Canada" was the theme, and the speaker carried his hearers back through the years to present the background of the Canadian history. The first fight for Canada, he said, was on the Plains of Abraham, when the British troops vanquished the French. In the second struggle, the setting was the Conference in 1864 at Charlottetown, P.E.I., when the ablest and most far-seeing minds of the British and French settlers, gave themselves wholeheartedly to adjusting difficulties in order to bring about that great vision of a confederated people of two great racial strains. This Conference led later to the Quebec conference, and finally to the culmination of Confederation.

But this conviction of a United Canada can only be maintained by the faith of the people themselves. The present day has brought still another stage of the struggle, and there is the sorry spectacle of provinces "ganging up" to defeat the great vision of confederation. "The Dominion of provinces was not born out of geographical sections" said Bishop Sherman. "It was not born of east or west, but was brought forth from the faith and conviction in the hearts of men."

Touching on the early settlement of the eastern provinces; the labors and Low. Expenditures would not have to be curtailed very much to bring the estimated deficit within ability of the government to handle it.

victories of the pioneers; and the later courageous settlement of the West, Bishop Sherman asked "Is our history not worth fighting for. Is the work of our forefathers, those indomitable, aspiring people, not worth holding and developing?" He remarked that strip farming might be a fine thing agriculturally, but it was not a good principle for national citizenship.

In the early part of his address, the speaker dealt at some length with Quebec, round which much of the present difficulties seem to centre. As Dean of Quebec for some years, he had opportunity of meeting in close association with the people of that glorious old province. He referred to the memorials which perpetuate the struggle between French and English, paying tribute to victor and vanquished, and entwining the two nationalities. We must be thankful for that beautiful province, and its wonderful people, he said. It was said at the Quebec Conference of 1864 that "the last gun to be fired for Britain will be fired by Frenchmen. This sentiment still prevails.

Deploping the divisions of east and west, the bitter sectionalism that is blinding Canadians to the greater reality of true union, Bishop Sherman said: "We must fight against the forces of materialism which have created this situation, and which are even more dangerous than militarism."

No Qualification Needed
Bill should wonder to himself why he is an attorney-general without qualification. Yet he demands that other people who have to strive through various trades should show qualification. Take, for instance, the barbers, printers, dentists, mechanics, nurses, teachers (?), plumbers, tinsmiths, blacksmiths, carpenters, etc., all must qualify. But for the attorney-generalship no qualification is necessary.—Blairmore Enterprise.

Soil Survey For Wheat Producing

In a Saskatchewan soil survey it has been shown that the country can be classified as follows:

	Acres
Arable: Best wheat land	4,275,000
Very good wheat land	3,558,000
Moderately good wheat land	10,182,000
Fair wheat land	15,309,000

Total 33,324,000

In addition, marginal, or poor wheat land, totalled 11,142,000 acres and non arable or very poor wheat land, 15,763,000 acres.

The area under cultivation, including wheat, coarse grains, summerfallow, etc., was 29,393,100 acres in 1937. It was almost up to the acreage of good arable land.

The present move toward efficiency is to leave marginal and non-arable land empty, move families now settled there, to better areas.

A new Canadian rust resistant wheat called "Regent" will be recommended for licensing. Thatcher wheat gave a low yield last year, and the new wheat is resistant to leaf rust and stem rust.

Marketing Control New Legislation

Orderly Marketing; Central Marketing Board; Maximum Price for Producer, No Increase to Consumer

The Marketing Control Board, which the Alberta legislature advocates, follows to some extent the marketing legislation of B.C. which has been established as being within the rights of the province. The second part of the Alberta legislation is an expansion of the B. C. Act.

"The proposed act is intended, firstly, to enable producers and industries to establish boards whose business it will be, through methods of orderly marketing, to obtain for the producer the maximum price for his produce without increasing prices paid by the ultimate consumer; and, secondly, the proposed act provides for the establishment of a central marketing board while not interfering with the boards established for various branches of producers and industries, will by methods of orderly purchasing and efficient merchandising practice, be able to assist materially Alberta manufacturers in large quantities with resultant reduced freight rate and lower price schedule considerations. Reduction of such operation costs will, it is intended, be reflected in lower prices to the

Shabby Homes Also One Of Alberta's Problems

Public Buildings, Etc. Far Out Class Inadequate Housing of Canadian People; Re-building.

The Country Guide, pointing to building programs of other countries, in comparison with Canada says:

"Canada is overbuilt in almost every category except homes for the people. It has enough railways, public buildings, docks, bridges, highways and elevators for a population of 25 millions, while at least a third of its 11 millions are miserably or inadequately housed. Yet the construction of public works goes on while homes deteriorate.

"The City of Winnipeg is a good example. Employment schemes, put through early in the depression, provided it with a million-dollar music hall, a $1,600,000 federal building and a couple of expensive bridges which it had gone without at no serious inconvenience.

"On the other hand figures have been produced showing that in five years only 707 new dwellings and suites were provided in the city. During that period there were 13,581 marriages. If three out of four newly weds set up housekeeping there would be only one new house or suite provided for each 14 couples.

"We read of great European cities from which slums have been eliminated. In Sweden and Norway, travelers are impressed with the home building projects visible on every hand. A few weeks ago the Finnish consul at Toronto, who had been home after an absence of five years, was interviewed over the CBC network. He was asked what had impressed him most with his homeland. He said it was the great new home building projects that were under way. Britain as everyone knows, has pursued a tremendous home building program during recent years.

"The Canadian government has two housing plans. Under the Home Improvement Plan, $25 millions have been advanced by banks with a government guarantee against loss up to 15 per cent. Under the Home Building Plan, worked in co-operation with municipalities, moderate priced homes can be built with a government loan up to 90 per cent of the cost at five per cent.

"In spite of this assistance, Canada has been a laggard in home building. For one thing business has simply laid down on the job of home construction. Some improvement is expected."

consumer.

"Part 1 of the bill provides that the lieutenant-governor-in-council may establish, for producers or industries, boards, each of which will be a body corporate and whose purpose it shall be to market the products concerned. Each board which may be nominated by the producers or industries involved will be essentially a selling agency. These boards will regulate, for their own industries, all phases of marketing from the producer to the market including packing, transportation and so forth but their duties end there, and do not include any function of purchasing."

A Regulator

The board would serve as a regulator of what may be considered exorbitant prices and is empowered to enter into any phase of merchandise business. It may compete against merchandising organizations which are maintaining unduly high prices. It is given power to borrow from the provincial treasury up to $25,000 to carry on business. This does not include general running expenses. Each board is empowered to regulate granting of permits and levying of fees, etc.

Correct Version For Song 'O Canada'

Official Words for All Canadian School Children Authorized for Royal Visit in May

Teachers and pupils are asked to take notice to the instructions authorized by official Ottawa:

Canadian school children have been asked to sing the Weir version of O Canada during the visit of the King and Queen rather than any other version. The appeal was made by the inter-departmental committee in charge of details for the visit.

First verse and chorus of the Weir version follow:

O Canada! Our home and native land! True patriot-love in all thy sons command.

With glowing hearts we see thee rise, The true north, strong and free, We stand on guard, O Canada, We stand on guard for thee.

O Canada, glorious and free O Canada, we stand on guard for thee! O Canada, we stand on guard for thee!

The tune was written by Calixa Lavallée and the first lyrics, in French, by Judge Adolphe-Routhier of Quebec in 1888. Robert Stanley Weir, Montreal, judge and poet, wrote the English version 20 years later, in 1908.

tion of it to politics.

You may have read some time ago of a German proposal to exchange agricultural implements for American wheat and cotton. Well, there was nothing in it, except some pretty smooth propaganda to stir up disaffection in western and southern states. The only authentic case of barter between the two countries was when the Standard Oil of New Jersey accepted harmonicas in payment of a consignment of oil.

Mussolini promised Italian evacuation of Spain after the war there is over and now he gets mad every time he is reminded of it. No doubt he regrets now that he made the promise and it fills him to think that Britain and France took him at his word. He ought to feel complimented that his word was taken—perhaps he does. What annoys him is that they now expect him to live up to it. A gentleman of Signor Mussolini's type is certain to resent this. He does not mind signing an I.O.U. or any other sort of promissory note. It is only when payment is demanded that he explodes.

Those demonstrations in New York and Los Angeles have opened the eyes of Americans to Nazi activities; similar to those that preceded the murder of Dolfuss and the subsequent invasion of Austria, similar, too, to the operations of the Henleinists in Czechoslovakia. In the United States they are bold enough to parade in Nazi uniform under a leader whom they call their fuhrer. It is a private army taking its inspiration, and probably its orders, from a country decidedly hostile. The United States will have to do what Hungary did—ban the organization and the uniform.

That the British navy is America's first line of defence is affirmed by Huntington Wilson who was President Taft's assistant Secretary of State. He therefore concludes that the United States should make it clear that they would start in good time and take no chance of that line being broken or crippled. He criticizes Roosevelt for not saying so definitely instead of saying that their resources, short of war, would be against the aggressors, but he censures Hoover for advocating isolation. In George Washington's time, it was good advice to avoid entangling alliances, but air-craft, submarines, etc., have changed the picture. If Britain and France are defeated, the American coast-line is the next objective of the triumphant dictators.

We are in no position to criticize those in the United States who favor isolation. We have too many of that sort here in Canada, especially in Quebec. They declare their determination to fight like devils if Canada is attacked, and so they would, but if Britain and France are defeated, what possible defence could they put up against an enemy fleet sailing up the St. Lawrence? Of all Americans, they should be foremost in support of Britain, they being in the most vulnerable position.

Mr. King's luck still holds. When asked about an appeal for winter relief funds for people in Germany, made by a German Consul in Canada, he, after making inquiries, was able to report that the appeal was directed to German nationals only. If any one else were Premier, the appeal would have been to naturalized Germans as well as German nationals and an international incident might have resulted. This was happily avoided by Mr. King being able to say that the Consul appealed only to the few Germans here who are not naturalized.

Winston Churchill has never been deficient in courage, nor has he ever overlooked the advantage of knowing which way the wind blows, and so when he praises Mr. Chamberlain we assume it is not a good time for a Conservative to bolt the ticket. He has a good home to come back to, after restless wanderings. Labor and Liberal members are not so fortunate. Their leaders censured the Prime Minister freely, but a lot of their folk at home applauded him and not them. There is a large body of public opinion that is behind Chamberlain and those candidates who are in a position to do so will get on his band-wagon. Those who are not are just out of luck.

Jews who find fault with Britain for wanting to give up her mandate over Palestine might help somewhat by explaining what other course is open. She did not want the mandate in the first place and it has brought her nothing but grief and expense. The Balfour declaration was as cautious an instrument as was ever drawn, merely expressing Britain's desire that Jews should find a home there without prejudice to Arab rights. She has tried to find some accommodation of conflicting interests and has failed, so if she says let someone else try it, who can blame her? The only one indicated is some person who has made a success in judging baby shows.

NOTICE to HORSE-OWNERS IN THE MUNICIPAL DISTRICT of ROYAL, No. 158

An outbreak of Sleeping Sickness is expected during the 1939 season and an attempt is being to have all Horses in the Municipality vaccinated.

The Municipality, in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture, will arrange for the vaccination at a cost of One Dollar per head for the Two treatments, if owners will gather their horses together in bunches of fifty or more at various points.

The work will be undertaken by Geo. Todd, Vulcan, and Geo. Forbes, Brant, who have received instruction in this work. All horses vaccinated in 1938 should be re-vaccinated.

All horse owners are asked to communicate with the Municipal Office or get in touch with Mr. Todd or Mr. Forbes within the next week and advise as to the number of their horses and whether or not they wish to participate in the campaign.

The intention is to start the work early in April, hoping that it might be completed before seeding.

MOST PEOPLE DIE IN BED

Smith Falls Record-News—An Ontario doctor said recently that "ninety per cent. of the men over 40 attending sporting events are taking a chance of dropping dead of heart failure." This business of keeping alive has certainly developed into a complicated affair. However, there is some consolation for all sport fans who are over the two-score years, in the fact that more people in Canada died in bed than anywhere else, even though motor vehicles are vying supremacy.

Grain Buyers Hold Two-Day Convention

E. A. Thompson, Vice-President of New Organization of Elevator Agents With 650 Members

E. A. Thompson of High River has been elected first vice-president of the provincial branch of Western Canada grain buyers. J. N. Martin of Clive is president. A two-day provincial convention was held recently in Calgary, in which it was disclosed that 650 of the 1700 rural grain buyers of the province have joined up.

The convention in Calgary supported the federal wheat board and the minimum of 80 cts. bushel. Working out of a pension scheme was left to a committee.

One of the major complaints of the association was that last year, as in previous years of Agricultural Relief Advances Act, they were forced not only to look after their own municipal districts, but to take into account advances made for seed, feed, fuel and other help.

The elevators, commenting on their various resolutions, pointed out that many of them, had been forced to stay open all night in the busy season. They felt this was unfair, both to themselves and from a labor angle.

A committee to zone the province was appointed, and two resolutions were passed with regard to elevators being compelled to make collections for the hail board, implement men, insurance and loan companies.

One of the operators asked if the commission for these collections is paid to the association. There was no definite answer.

The meeting considered a draft constitution which was passed, subject to legal corrections, and resolutions dealing with medical protection, establishment of a half-holiday each week, were considered and passed with minor amendments.

Implement Prices Target of Attack

With the annual sessions of the legislatures, the farm implement industry is again the target of criticism.

The commonest charges are that prices of implement are out of line with prices of agricultural produce; that implement companies are harsh in their collection methods; and that in any event a combine exists to keep prices high.

Dissatisfied with low prices for grain it may be natural for farmers to attack the implement companies. But in the light of higher production costs, increased cost of materials, labor and overhead, is the price of farm implements as high as is claimed? Is it as high relatively as for many other commodities? Is it a fair criterion to compare prices of farm machines 20 years ago and the prices today? And does the farmer, as is so often said, pay out more for machinery than for anything else he purchases?

These are questions which might be answered by a frank discussion of present conditions between the men who sell and the men who are their customers. One of them may be answered by examination of facts already known. From 1929 to 1937 the farmers of Canada only averaged 3.56 percent of their gross increase as outlay for machinery, tractors, and repairs. For the same period they paid 5.08 percent of gross income for operating their cars, trucks and tractors.

BEEF—in lounging pajamas!!

WHAT'S FUNNY about that? Why shouldn't fine Western beef show due appreciation for the finer things in life! Ferdinand, the famous Bull, loved flowers. Why shouldn't Western beef, equally sensitive, love flowered cottons!

Western flour, too, is at home in cotton. In gaily stamped sacks, this product of the Prairies goes East to be welcomed into millions of homes. In fact, the way cotton is sent West to dress up beef and flour that will go East, is one sure indication of the interdependence of these two parts of Canada.

Food and clothing! Both are necessities. Both are produced in Canada, and both provide jobs for the people who produce them. Over 10,000 Canadians have jobs because Dominion Textile makes cotton and rayon goods.
